John Wagner, known to every man, woman and child in the United States, who has the least interest in the great national game of baseball, as "Hans" Wagner, or "Honus" played a game of baseball against the Idlewild team on Tuesday and succeeded in beating them. His playing was of such a character that the big crowd that attended the game was kept in a constant state of excitement and the great player received applause every time he came to bat for something he had done in the previous inning. Wagner had some assistance in defeating the local boys from his team mates of the champion Pittsburgh club, but he didn't need it as a glance at the score will show. Hans was all over the infield and the way he killed base hits was enough to take the heart out of a team that had less gameness than the Idlewild boys. He scored one run, batted in another, made four hits out of five times up, put out four men, assisted in retiring eleven, and was generally the whole show, during the afternoon. Jimmy Sebring, the speedy right fielder of the champions, caught two flies, and Carrish put out five men who struck out, and these were the only ones in which the great Wagner did not get in his deadly work. The wonderful player was at his best and it would be an injustice to him to attempt to describe his playing. Big and awkward, yet fast as a flash, the unrivaled player continually astonished the players of his own team as well as the opponents. He covers an incredible amount of ground, and it is practically impossible to get anything past him. At one time he will stop a hit behind third base and with a throw like the hurl of a catapult, retire the runner at first. The next instant he will run over second base, scoop up a sizzling grounder with one hand, and without checking his speed will drop the ball into Bransfield's hands ahead of the batter. These feats are not occasional, but are habitual with Wagner until those who see him play day in and day out, expect them of him. It was fortunate that the great shortstop had a busy day Tuesday, as Newark fans were given an excellent opportunity to see him play the kind of game that has made him famous, and today he stands unrivaled except by Lajoie, captain and second baseman of the Cleveland club. In the first inning on Tuesday, Frech hit a terrific hit down to shortstop, which no player in the country could have stonned except Wagner. He jumped in front of the ball, got his left hand on it and without apparent effort threw Frech out at first. The next time Frech came to bat he hit a sharp grounder over second base. Wagner ran over and picking it up, again threw him out without even slackening his speed. At another time Flick hit one which the German stopped but fell down. Never waiting to straighten himself, he shot the ball to Bransfield in time to retire the Idlewild captain. All through the game it was plays of this kind that kept the crowd constantly cheering the Idol of National League fans.

Sebring made a great catch off Mute's bat, running over from right field and getting the ball in deep right center as it was passing over his head, by a jump sideways. Outside of this catch and Wagner's playing the champions had no chance to distinguish themselves individually.

Purtell played a good game at third, barring a little nervousness. His star play was in the seventh, and Beaumont, last year's champion batter of balls, off Malloy 1. Two base hits, Sebring, Wagner, Purtell. Hit by pitched ball, Beverly, 2. Struck out by Snyder 3, by Malloy 5. Time, 1:35. Umpire, McAllister. Attendance 2000.

Notes of the Game.

By baseball writers and players all over the United States, two players are conceded to be in a class by themselves, Wagner of Pittsburgh, and Lajoie of Cleveland. Each has his admirers and those who say he is the greater of the two. It is a matter of opinion at best, and the only thing that can be looked at is the records of the two men. The writer and Secretary Locke of the Pittsburgh club, were discussing the question in the Advocate office on Tuesday, Mr. Locke contending that Wagner had the Frenchman "beat a block. The writer has seen both players on several occasions, and without detracting in the least from the wonderful Wagner's ability, he would still prefer Lajoie to the "Dutchman." Allowing for Mr. Locke's very natural prejudice recent figures show the Pittsburgh man to have decidedly the best of Lajoie, in only one department, considering the number of games played, and that is in base running. The figures follow:

Batter.	Games	R	H	SE	Av.
Lajoie	111	68	130	17	.352
Wagner	111	85	159	33	.358

Lajoie has a big advantage in fielding, having accepted .951 per cent of his chances to Wagner's .935.

It is a pleasure to deal with the kind of men who aid Barney Dreyfuss in the administration of the affairs of the Pittsburgh baseball club. W. H. Locke the secretary who is in charge of the team, is a pleasant gentleman, courteous, accommodating and thoroughly alive to the rights and privileges of the second party to any contract with him. There is nothing small nor mean about any one connected with Dreyfuss, as he is known to be one of the squarest men ever connected with baseball, and Mr. Locke is one of his kind. There was never a hitch in any of the arrangements for the game, and the settlement was made without the least argument or trouble. The Pittsburgh players are like a happy family, and it is a pleasure to see and mingle with them.

Malloy, who pitched for Pittsburgh on Tuesday, is the premier twirler of the Norwoods of Cincinnati, leaders in one of the crack amateur leagues of that city. He hails from Goshen, O., the home of Sam Leever, and was secured by the pedagogical pitcher. Malloy was sent home after Tuesday's game, and Manager Clarke will probably wait until next spring before giving Malloy a try out. The Pirates' manager sat on the steps of the grand stand behind the catcher, and watched every move of both Malloy and Snyder, and he said Tuesday night that both pitchers possessed the qualities that would land them in fast company, eventually.

A big delegation from the Heisey glass works were in the stands, and as many of them formerly lived in and around Pittsburgh, they took a conspicuous part in the ovation given the two champions when they appeared for their preliminary practice.

The Pirates left Newark for Pitts- burg at 9:20 Tuesday night. Their private sleeper remained on a side track during the afternoon, and was attached to No. 20 in the evening. Every effort was made to stop the "Manhattan Limited" but this could not be done, so that it was possible to call the game at 3:20. The players arrived in Pittsburgh at 2 o'clock this morning, remaining in their car until time to get up.

Manager Clarke said Tuesday night: "The Idlewild team is one of the best of its kind I have ever seen. The people of Newark should be proud of them and encourage them with liberal patronage. The boys put up a great game against us, and we were certain that we would be compelled to play extra innings. I went to bat for Malloy and the next inning I would have gone to left field and Kennedy to the pitcher's box. We have enjoyed our stay in Newark, and have a high respect for the ability of the Idlewild team. They put up a fast, clean game and deserve success."

Secretary Locke made partial arrangements to play in Newark several times next season, and the Newark team will be given choice of open dates as soon as the schedule is made.

Snyder Joins Columbus.

"Lefty" Snyder the crack left handed pitcher of the Idlewild team, left for Columbus Tuesday night, where he will immediately join the Senators and take his regular turn in the box. Snyder, by his excellent work for the Idlewild team, his quiet and gentlemanly demeanor, has become a general favorite in Newark. All baseball lovers regret to see him leave, but wish him the success he deserves with Quinn's Columbus team.

Baseball This Week.

The Euclids of Cleveland, a team that occupies the same position in that city that the Shamrocks and other crack organizations do in Cincinnati, will be here for a series of games on Saturday, Sunday and Labor Day, at Idlewild park. These games should prove exciting and interesting.

Newark Horses at Columbus.

John H. Swisher's Interurban finished fourth in the 2:21 pace at the State Fair races Tuesday, with a sixth, fourth and third. The race was for a purse of $400, and was won by Ben Potts in straight heats the time being 2:20 1-4, 2:20 1-4, 2:21.

Nelson Vanatta's Nata B is entered in the 2:15 pace, purse $140 today.

Foot Ball Meeting.

All young men who have already been spoken to about playing in the Y. M. C. A. football team and all others who wish to play the game this fall are requested to meet in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium tomorrow (Thursday) evening at 7:30 to elect captain and manager for the team, and to decide other important matters.

The best foot ball players in Newark have almost to a man, expressed their intention of joining the team. With so much good material to select from and the splendid Y. M. C. A. athletic field at their disposal, a strong team should be developed, and some exciting games may be expected between now and Thanksgiving.

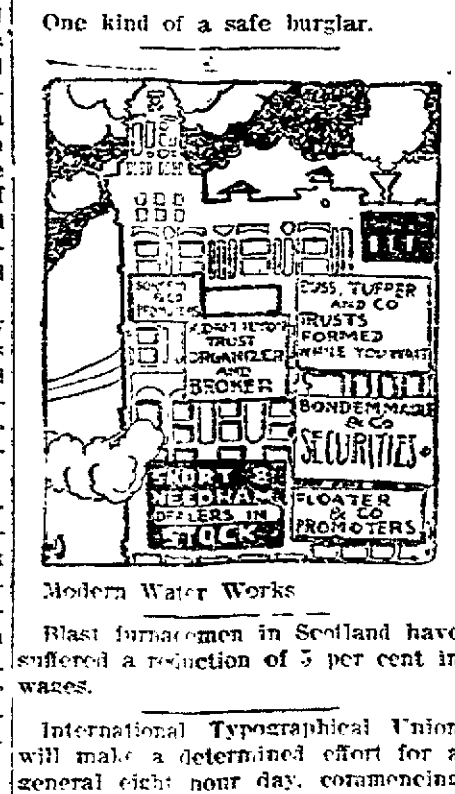

Championship Game.

The greatest game of baseball in the amateur ranks, to be played in Newark this season, will be played at Idlewild park Thursday afternoon between the Druggists and the Idlewild staff team. The game will be called at 3:30 o'clock and the admission to the ball park and grandstand will be free. There will be no charge except the 5 cents admission to the park. This game will be for the amateur championship of the city, both teams having won the games played by them this season. Among the stars to be seen on Thursday afternoon will be Manager W. D. Harris on first, Manager Driscoll of the Idlewild team in center, Harry La Vealle and Clarence M. Parker of the Beggar Prince opera company in right and at short respectively for the Idlewild staff team.

Ernest Johnson at second, Mell Kinsey in the box and other players of equal fame for the Druggists.

The teams will line up as follows: Idlewild staff—Harris 1b, Russell p, Hall 3b, Jones 1f, Stan Seeders, c, Parker ss, La Vealle rf, Driscoll cf, Morse 2b.

Idlewild—Woodward 1b, Johnson 2b, Haynes cf, Kinsey p, Wiles lf, Dickenson c, Collins ss, Bricker rf, Harris 3b.

Hagee's Cordial of Cod Liver Oil (with Hypophosphites) of Lime and Soda is so much different in taste and action from the ordinary nauseating, greasy cod liver oils, that physicians prescribe it in preference to all others.

Its re-constructive, re-vitalizing and strengthening tonic influence, make it an ideal summer remedy for those who need something to brace and build them up. For stomach troubles its effect is marvelous, either in children or adults. Its pleasant taste makes it a most appreciable household remedy. Contains no grease, no fishy flavor whatsoever.

Sold by all druggists. Prepared by Katharmon Chemical Co. St. Louis, Mo.

This Matter of Smoke.

We are sure that our view of the cigar business is unusual. Most druggists and all cigar dealers sell cigars to make money. We sell them to make friends—and money too in the long run. We want to get smokers into the store and let them judge what kind of a business we conduct by the kind of cigar they get. In cigars as in drugs we get the best that money can buy.

Baby Kangaroo Born in Captivity.

The baby kangaroo, born at the Cincinnati Zoo, attracts considerable notice from students of natural history. The little animal is of the red variety and is said to be the first of this kind born in captivity. The baby is old enough now to be fed on choice sugar melons, the best fruit, young, tender clover and white bread in summer, while apples, cabbage and carrots will be added during the winter months.

REUNION

Of the Foster Family Was Attended by Two Thousand People Near Thornville, O.

Thornville, O., Sept. 2—One of the largest family reunions ever held in this part of the state, was that held by the descendants of Rev. William Foster, who came to Ohio in 1803, in the beautiful grove of Dr. Frank's, near this place. There were over two thousand descendants of this family in attendance at the reunion, and program of interesting exercises was carried out, consisting of speaking, music and in having a good social time generally, which was seasoned with a sumptuous dinner, splendid music for the occasion being rendered by the Rushville band. One of the most interesting speeches made was that delivered by Mr. B. B. Beck of Newark, whose subject was "Ohio, 1803-1903."

The reunion was held under the auspices of the Foster Cemetery association, which was incorporated in 1898.

Father Foster established the first Lutheran church in the state, about 1803, and most of his descendants are Lutherans.

Mr. B. C. Foster is president of the association, and Mr. W. E. Foster, Jr., is secretary. Both are of Thornville.

THE PLATFORM IN A NUTSHELL.

The Ohio Democratic platform boiled down is as follows: Colonialism and imperialism are condemned; trusts and trust-fostering tariffs are denounced; government by injunction is repudiated; financial monopoly, together with every other legalized monopoly and legalized privilege, is opposed; principles of Kansas City platform are reaffirmed and all efforts to renounce or ignore them are condemned; principles of home rule for cities are advocated; the action of the legislature in embodying in the Ohio code "unwise and unjust provisions for the regulation of street railway" is denounced, and an equalization in taxation is demanded in order that wealthy corporations may be compelled to pay their just proportion.

JOHNSON'S STRONG HOLD ON THE PEOPLE.

(Middletown Signal.)

Tom Johnson is a man who does not fear to look you in the face and tell you what he believes. He never asks for votes on false pretenses.

The vigor of Tom Johnson's ideas on the equality of state taxation as between the farmers and the corporations, as well as other important questions of state policy, have taken a strong hold, and some surprising results may be expected in the election of governor and members of the legislature, with Mark Hanna as a Republican candidate for senator. Johnson and Hanna are both alert and resourceful with the fact apparent that Johnson has the strongest hold on the people, because he stands out openly, resolutely and radically on questions that Hanna with its trust complications must treat gingerly.

NEW YORK CITY'S CAMPAIGN.

The New York City election is not going to lose any of its national interest this fall. Mayor Seth Low will undoubtedly be renominated, but there are disturbing elements among his supporters at his election three years ago which may confine his support mainly to Republicans. The Democratic reformers and anti-Tammany men want a Democrat as the citizens candidate, which the Republicans are unwilling to concede. They call for a Republican mayor for the Presidential year. For similar reasons the Democrats insist on one of their party faith. The fusion that triumphed three years ago in the election of Low will probably go to pieces this year. Other powerful political organizations outside of Tammany are determined on Low's defeat should he be a candidate. They are outspoken in their hope for his renomination so that they can cast a solid vote against him and accomplish his defeat by a large majority. Tammany should strive for a united Democracy.

It is the opinion of leading religious journals that President Roosevelt's mock wars should keep over Sundays. In time of real war Sunday is often a day of battles, but the "Congregationalist" holds that it is an absurdity, the ordering of soldiers on Sunday from pillar to post, to keep up the sham of war and cultivate the war spirit to which our President is so given. The soldiers and sailors need a day of rest, and "the example set the non-military element of our population is most damaging." But it is the Roosevelt way of promoting the war spirit.

DEMOCRATIC SENATORIAL CONVENTION.

The Senatorial Committee of the 15-16th Senatorial District of Ohio, has fixed the time of holding the next Democratic Senatorial convention, at Newark, Ohio on at 11 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of placing in nomination, one candidate for State Senator for said Senatorial district.

The Committee has fixed the basis of representation in convention, one delegate for each one hundred votes or fraction of 50 votes or more, cast in each of the counties for Hon. James Kilbourne for Governor, in 1901.

An Impromptu Explanation.

The learned Porson was staying at one time with a well known canon of Ely named Jeremiah King. One day at dinner, when they had got into discussion upon questions of etymology, Porson gave a derivation which King considered to be so far-fetched as to be quite ridiculous. "You might as well say," said King, "that my name is connected with cucumber." Possibly there was a cucumber on the table. "And so it is," said Porson. "How so?" asked King. "Why, thus: Jeremiah King, by contraction Jerry King; Jerry King, by contraction and metathesis Gherkin, and gherkin, we know, is a cucumber pickled."

When Robespierre Was "Stung."

Under the terror Robespierre used to play a peaceful game of chess at the Cafe Itenege, and the story is told of a youth who once challenged him and beat him twice. Robespierre, after his defeat, asked how much he owed, no stakes having been previously fixed. The supposed youth, who in reality was a girl in man's clothes, presented an order for the release of her lover from prison, and Robespierre signed it. Napoleon Bonaparte during his consulship was seen at the famous cafe, but he showed himself no tactician at chess.—London Telegraph.

Just in Hard Luck.

Irate Guest (to waiter)—Look here! Didn't I order a Swiss cheese sandwich?

Polite Waiter—Yes, sir, and there it is.

Irate Guest—There are two slices of bread, but can you find any cheese on them?

Polite Waiter—I'm sorry, sir. The cheese is there all right, only you happened to hit on one of the holes.—New York Times.

A CAUTIOUS CREED.

"My boy," said Uncle Hiram, "you should learn while yet you're young. A chap can dodge much trouble by a good grip on his tongue. I've noticed that the fellows who with 'keep most in touch' are those who over gossip never comment very much. Of course one don't grow chummy with a man of quiet type. Unbosom secrets to him o'er a bottle or a pipe. Fet, my boy, you're bound to notice as your years of youth slip by. That the man who keeps his mouth shut never gets a blackened eye."

"There must be some connection 'tween a man who's quick to speak. His thoughts on all occasions an' a bruised spot on the cheek. For it's chaps who're allers talkin' when horse sense would quite forbid whose skin goes into mournin' on their optics' underlid. It may at first be hard, my boy, the stream of talk 't' shun. Perhaps by bein' quiet you will miss a lot of fun. But there's this sweet compensation which the wise men won't deny: He who's learned to keep his mouth shut never gets a blackened eye."

"An' so, your Uncle Hiram, with an eye to your success, would fain this little lesson on your youthful mind impress. Think twice ere you opinions reach on things men talk about. An' then, for pity sakes, my boy, don't ever speak them out! It may look idiotic in a man 't' smile an' blink. An' never say a word out loud of what he's come to think. But the god of facial beauty's apt to since the man who keeps his mouth shut never gets a blackened eye!"
—Roy Farrell Greene in New York Times.

COSHOCTON NOTES.

Coshocton, O., Sept. 2.—The wheels started in the new Pope Gosser Pottery yesterday. The plant will give employment to 200 hands.

The Carnegie Library Board has accepted the plans of E. W. Hart and company of Columbus, for the $15,000 building and advertised for bids. It will be built of brick.

A Result of the Alpine Invasion.

A protest is being raised against certain consequences of the construction of mountain railroads and particularly of the line which is slowly creeping up the Jungfrau, says the London Graphic. The Wengern Alp, it seems, once sacred to the beautiful blue gentian, is speckled with the shells of hard boiled eggs, rows of ladies read penny "society" papers at the edge of the Eiger glacier, and at the Sheideck a gramophone has taken the place of the Itanz des Vaches. Happily there still remain a few resorts of the old style known to the elect, but they become fewer every year, and the projects of the engineers are so ingenious and extensive that on the Bernese Oberland, at all events, another decade will probably see the last of them invaded.

UNCLE SAM: "I'M SOME PUMPKINS IN THIS FIELD."

Rare Animal From Africa on American Soil.

An aoudad, a native of Africa, resembling in many ways the Rocky Mountain goat, but having a light tan color, has been imported to America. It is sometimes known as the Barbary sheep. It is now at the Cincinnati Zoo.

The animal is very rare, but a mate to the new arrival will come in a few months. There are but six aoudads in the United States. In its natural state the aoudad lives on mountains, where it bounds from cliffs more than 40 feet high, and rarely injures itself. There is a dense mane growing from its neck, which protects the knees when leaping. The mane when full grown makes the animal much resemble a buffalo from a distance.

MILLARE SANDERS BELIEVES LOU DILLON CAN LOWER CRESCUS' TWO-MILE MARK

Cleveland, O., Sept. 2.—Lou Dillon, the trotting queen, arrived here Saturday from Readville, and is quartered in the Billings stables at Glenville. The journey of the great horse was an eventful one. At every city and village where the train stopped crowds waited at the depot and curious people climbed up on the steps of the private car to get a glimpse at the most famous horse in the country.

Millard Sanders is greatly elated over the little mare's work. He laughs at the suggestions made by some people that a wind shield was used to help her make the record. "The persons who claim that a wind shield was used in the race are either since."

WILL DEVELOP A FAST TEAM FOR NORTHWESTERN

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 2.—Walter McCormick, the ex-foot ball captain of Dartmouth, is expected to develop the best foot ball team that Northwestern has had for several years.

The older students of foot ball will remember that in the somewhat dim past Northwestern had a foot ball team that could hold its own with any in the west. Van Doozer now a member of a Lake Michigan life-saving crew at Chicago, was the star, and with his bulldog, nerve, weight, speed and knowledge of the game there have been few backs in the west superior to him. Paul Noyes, who has a sub back in his freshman year at Yale, was another of the star performers. The latter is now sporting editor of the Chicago Daily News.

McCormick has been putting in the summer landing promising foot ball candidates from the high schools, and it is said that he has induced an iron molder and an iceman to throw their weight into the line. McCormick's "inducements" have been called into question by sticklers for purity in amateur athletics, but he answers that offering free tuition, free board or opportunities to make money on the side is no more than all the colleges of the country have been doing for years.

WEDDING

Of Miss Martha McMillen and Prof. Elmer C. Griffith Takes Place on Wednesday Afternoon.

A happy wedding took place at the country home of Mr. I. N. McMillen, about four miles west of Newark at four o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The contracting parties were Professor Elmer C. Griffith, principal of the Yankton, S. D., public schools, and Miss Martha McMillen, the accomplished daughter of Mr. I. N. McMillen, who has been engaged in teaching in the west. Rev. L. C. Sparks, pastor of the First M. E. church of this city, performed the ceremony in the presence of about seventy-five relatives and friends. The groom is a rising young educator of the west, and the bride is a charming and highly accomplished young lady. They will have the best wishes of their many friends for future happiness and prosperity.

Stomach Trouble.
"I have been troubled with my stomach for the past four years," says D. L. Beach, of Clover Nook Farm, Greenfield, Mass. If you have any trouble with your stomach try a box of these Tablets. You are certain to be pleased with the result. Price 25 cents. For sale by all druggists.

WILLOW WOOD.
Sunday a number of friends and relatives spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. George Hughes at their beautiful home about two miles south of Newark, on the Lover's Lane road, Rural Route No. 5. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hughes, Mrs. Lydia Hughes, Mrs. Henry Hughes, Mrs. Calvin Allison, the Misses Emma Bourne, Lena and Anna Hughes and Emma Shields and Messrs. C. Caran, Ben Bourne, James, Lawrence and Guy Hughes. Later in the evening all returned home, having had a very pleasant time.

What are Humors?

They are vitiated or morbid fluids coursing the veins and affecting the tissues. They are commonly due to defective digestion but are sometimes inherited.

How do they manifest themselves?

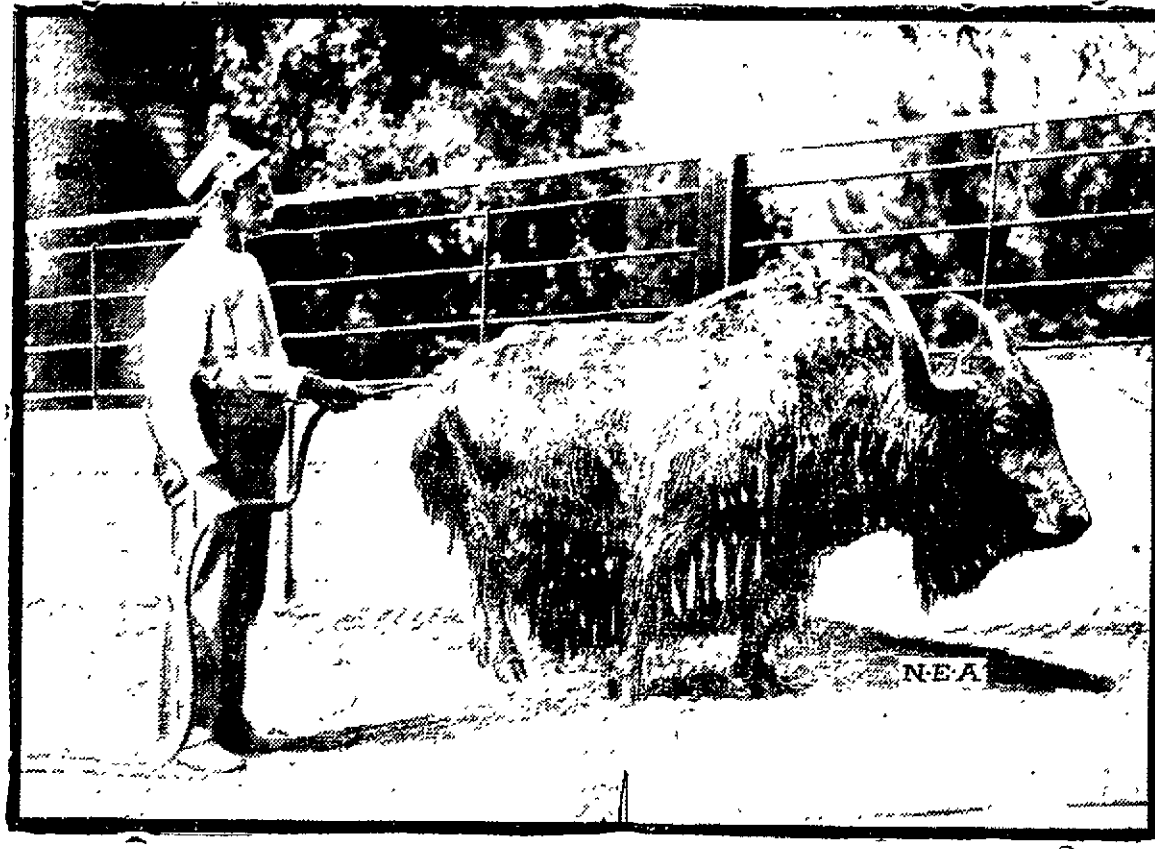

In many forms of cutaneous eruption, such as eczema, pimples and boils, and in weakness, languor, general debility.

How are they expelled? By

which also builds up the system that has suffered from them.

It is the best medicine for all humors.

Shower Baths For the Valuable Asiatic Yak Which Suffers Summer Discomforts in America.

Spraying the big yaks is an every-day occurrence during hot weather in the Zoos at Cincinnati, Chicago and Washington. These animals are covered with long, shaggy hair, as a means of a protection against extreme cold in their mountain haunts in Asia. Every effort is made to preserve them in this country, as the black variety is very rare. The animals are not of a vicious nature unless cornered.

RURAL

MAIL CARRIERS OF OHIO IN CONVENTION.

Licking County Represented at the State Meeting in Marion—State Association Formed.

Marion, O., Sept. 2.—The Rural Mail Carriers' association of Ohio was organized here with representatives present from 18 county organizations, and reports that indicated the organization of the carriers in four other counties.

The rural free delivery has grown to large proportions in Ohio within the last three years. Almost 1000 routes are now maintained in the state, serving approximately 100,000 families.

The rapid growth of this service has prevented the proper enforcement of many requirements that would lessen in a measure, the exposure of the carriers.

The purposes of the association include the general betterment of the service and the improvement of the highways, and, indirectly, the promotion of the interests of the carriers in matters of salaries, hours of service and the like.

The counties represented were Union, Richland, Coshocton, Wayne, Seneca, Wyandot Hancock, Allen, Ross, Licking, Muekingum, Medina, Fairfield, Knox, Defiance and Delaware.

The officers of the association are: President, Lee Miles, Richland county; vice president, Edward W. Kyle of Richland; secretary, J. W. Whitehead of Medina; treasurer, C. L. Stonebreaker of Defiance; delegate to national convention, W. T. McDaniel of Wayne; alternate, A. E. Creeger of Seneca; executive committee, J. M. Henderson of Coshocton, W. A. West of Trumbull and C. F. Peters of Fairfield.

The constitution was drawn by a committee consisting of J. W. Whitehead of Medina, A. E. Creeger of Seneca and C. A. Stonebreaker of Defiance. The committee on credentials was J. M. Henderson of Coshocton, J. F. Rapp of Union and Mr. Armstrong of Muskingum. The committee on resolutions consisted of R. J. Willey of Licking, W. A. West of Trumbull and W. T. McDaniel of Wayne.

A petition to the next general assembly was generally signed, asking the enactment of laws compelling road supervisors to remove snowdrifts on rural route roads and require township trustees and county commissioners to levy a special tax to put rural district roads in a passable condition.

The resolutions pledge the association to use all legitimate means to promote the betterment of the rural mail service, appoint The R. F. D. News the official organ of the association, and express the thanks of the association to the Y. M. C. A. for the use of their rooms and to others for co-operation and assistance.

In view of the fact that this was the first meeting for the purpose of organizing a state association, the attendance was good, and the interest and enthusiasm speaks volumes for the future usefulness of the organization in promoting this great and notable branch of the government service in Ohio.

IN CAMP

All the Suttler Privileges Were Given the Y. M. C. A.—Figures Showing What Was Done.

An interesting innovation was introduced at Camp McKinley Ohio National Guard, in the giving of all the sutler privileges to the Young Men's Christian Association as an additional department of its Army Work. Four refreshment stands were conducted by the State Executive Committee and 22 waiters were employed. The amount of business done can be appreciated when it is reported that 28,000 orders were served and twelve tons of ice used for refrigeration. The purpose of this new departure was to have a commercial spirit taken away and the refreshment stands conducted for the benefit of the soldiers. The Association provided pure foods, real lemonade, good milk and did everything possible to help keep the health of the camp. The result was fully satisfactory to the medical officers.

In the regular association tents 8,113 letters were written, 2,850 men attended, 10 bands concert, 2,570 men attended 11 religious meetings, 13,934 was the total attendance for the week. Seventeen workers had charge of these club rooms and rendered efficient and useful service to nearly every man in camp. The following men assisted in the work: W. O. Thompson Columbus; H. P. Crouse, Toledo; R. E. Ackland, Columbus; A. A. Ebersole, Newark; E. Dodge, Warren, Pa.; Frank W. Smith, Bellevue; F. W. Boswell, L. E. McLachlin, H. N. Conley and George S. Budd, Columbus; C. O. Reynard, Hiram College; Howard S. Woodward, Yale; E. L. Wertheim, Oberlin; C. C. Hatfield, O. S. U.; John W. Decker, O. S. U.; Roscoe Graham, Wooster; E. P. Getchell, Alexandria; F. J. MR. M'GONAGLE'S BROTHER WAS TAKEN FROM BUGGY.

Six Young Men Tried to Steal His Girl But They Were Arrested and Fined.

A brother of Undertaker James A. McGonagle had an exciting experience in Perry county Monday night.

On returning to Moxahala from New Lexington Monday night John McGonagle of Moxahala, and Miss Cora Mercer, of Zanesville, Ohio, were stopped and severely beaten by six masked men, who surrounded the buggy and demanded of the occupants that they get out.

McGonagle refused to get out. One of the men struck viciously at him, but he ducked the blow, which landed on Miss Mercer's arm. McGonagle parried all blows aimed at him, and finally succeeded in striking the horse. The horse leaped forward and escaped.

McGonagle claimed to have recognized one of the six men and telephoned to the sheriff at New Lexington, who arrested Albert Brown, against whom McGonagle preferred charges.

It is claimed that Brown admitted his guilt and told the names of his five companions.

Sheriff Sears of New Lexington, went to Moxahala and took Brown's five companions with him. They were arraigned Tuesday afternoon.

Brown's associates were Pete and George Forner and three boys named Keller, Pearl and Dreuster. They stated that they intended to take McGonagle out of the buggy and then one of them would go riding with the girl, Miss Mercer. All but Pearl were fined 50 cents each and costs in the Justice's court.

A special from Zanesville to a morning paper in Columbus contains an interview with Miss Mercer's mother pronouncing the story a hoax, but trustworthy information comes from Perry county corroborating the statements given above.

HORSE

Took Fright and Ran Off Throwing Out Patrick Moore Who Was Painfully Injured.

Granville, O., Sept. 2.—Patrick Moore, who a year ago came to Granville and bought the Pulshizer property, met with a bad accident this morning while driving a mile south of the county infirmary near Union Station. The horse frightened, the harness broke and Mr. Moore was thrown out landing on his head and shoulders. The messenger who came here for Dr. Cooke, said that Mr. Moore was complaining of a severe pain in his back.

AMUSEMENTS.

In speaking of Margaret Neville, the star with the Robinson Stock Company at the Auditorium all next week the Louisville Courier-Journal had the following to say in reviewing her recent engagement in that city as Prince Arthur in King John:

"The great scene came, and the slender, well-formed girl, with the great eyes and the sensitive mouth, rose to it. With never a tone too loud, never a gesture out of place, with never anything that would suggest aught but the horror-stricken, piteous pleading boy, she so gave the scene that at the close the people arose to cheer her. It was worth missing a dozen shows to see that bit. Rarely since that rainy night when Julia Arthur made her first appearance at Macaulay's has a young, unknown actress appeared who, in personality, charm and undoubted ability to act, showed herself the equal of Miss Margaret Neville, who played the role of Prince Arthur last night. And this is not extravagant praise."

Making a clean sweep of it.

It is dangerous for one to take patent medicines of unknown composition. When a person is really sick, the best course is to call a physician. Often times, however, a person is run down and out of sorts, without being actually sick.

At such times a good common sense-digestive tonic is usually all that is needed.

Such a tonic is Walthers' Peptonized Port, which you can get at F. D. Hall's. It consists simply of pure port wine and pure pepton. The first gives you new blood, new life; the second prompts a perfect performance of the digestive functions.

GEN. MANDERSON FOR VICE PRESIDENT

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 2.—Gen. Chas. F. Mander, of this city, has been introduced by several Republican organizations as a western candidate for vice president. He declines to permit his name to be considered, however, and says he is out of politics.

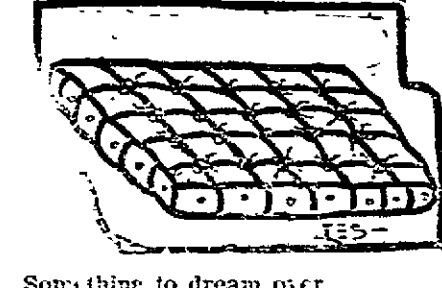

Gen. Mander was born in Pennsylvania and studied law at Canton, O. He was elected city solicitor of Canton in 1860. When Sumner was fired on he enlisted in the Canton Zouaves and later raised a company of infantry in which he was commissioned first lieutenant. He served through the war. He became colonel of the 19th Ohio infantry and served until March, 1865, when a severe wound compelled him to retire. He was breveted a brigadier general.

Returning to Canton he resumed the practice of law and was twice elected prosecuting attorney of Stark county. He removed to Omaha in 1869. He served six years as city attorney of Omaha, and was elected United States Senator in 1883. He was re-elected, but declined a third time. In 1895 he was president of the American Bar association. Gen. Mander is now general solicitor of the Burlington railroad.

MARRIED

Shortly After Midnight at the Home of the Officiating Clergyman, Rev. Mr. Acton.

Shortly after midnight Wednesday, Miss May Wilson who up till a month ago was one of the popular saleswomen in the Powers-Miller department store, was married by Rev. M. W. Acton at the Second M. E. parsonage, to Edward Kogler, a well known B. & O. fireman, who fires for Engineer Ryan between Newark and Sandusky on the Lake Erie division.

The couple will for the present make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eriar, 403 Andover street in Heisey's addition.

WEDDING

Of Mrs. James Elias and Miss Christa Moorehead Takes Place at Granville.

Granville, O., Sept. 2.—Mr. James Elias, prominent young school teacher of Granville township, and Miss Christa R. Moorehead, daughter of Mr. Wesley Moorehead of near New Way, this county, were married on Tuesday evening. The ceremony took place at the M. E. parsonage, and was performed by the Rev. Mr. Gillilan, pastor of the Granville Methodist church, at seven o'clock. Both the bride and groom are highly esteemed young people, who have the best wishes of all their friends in their new found happiness.

London, Sept. 2.—The engagement of Miss May Golet of New York, to the Duke of Roxburgh is announced. Miss Golet is one of the youngest and richest of American heiresses. She has a large fortune in her own right and will inherit millions of dollars upon the death of her mother and several relatives. The duke is 27 years old. His title was created in 1707. He is the owner of sixty thousand, five hundred acres of land that yield an annual rental of $300,000. He was an officer in the Boer war.

Old mother Nature has never been improved upon—sometimes she needs a little assistance over hard places though. But when we assist her, the nearer we keep to her own methods and processes the better.

Sometimes the digestive organs need help, we have indigestion. Pepsin is what nature has selected to do the work of digestion in the stomach; hence, the best help to digestion is pepsin. The pleasantest and most beneficial way to take pepsin is with pure port wine, as combined in Walther's Pepsinized Port, and sold by F. D. Hall in that form. The port is itself a valuable tonic.

IN THE PARK.

Yes, this is where I met her, Early in the spring. I filled her bottles for her. We got to conversing. And every morning since then, Meeting by design. She takes her water to her home. And I take mine to mine. So that is why I'm waiting, Early at the spring. To help her and to see her Wearing a certain ring. And something she has promised, As an open sign: Today I carry both the loads To her home and to mine. Some day we'll come together Early in next spring. And fill our bottles gayly. As a remembering Of that first day we met here. Of that chance divine That lets us carry water for One home that's hers and mine.

International Golf.

The make up of the team of the Oxford and Cambridge Golfing society, which will visit this country in the autumn, sailing at the end of August, will be as follows: John L. Low, Norman F. Hunter, D. F. Ramsay, J. A. T. Bramston and T. Mansfield Hunter of Cambridge; H. C. Ellis, H. G. B. Ellis, A. C. Croome and H. W. Beveridge of Oxford. This leaves three places on the team to be filled, as twelve players will come, and it is expected that Horace G. Hutchinson, the runner up in the recent amateur championships, will be one of them.

A most interesting figure among those who have been selected will be John L. Low. He is considered one of the greatest putters in the world.

Kraenzlein to Compete Again.

A SUMMER COUPLE

(Original.)

They met in the sweet summer time in the mountains. He was thirty-two, she twenty-eight. At such an age "spoofing" is supposed to be either over or on the wane, but in this case the man at least seemed to be as ready as a boy of twenty. Besides, the moment he laid eyes on the girl he was drawn to her by some unexplainable attraction. Was it that he had met his affinity—that she, too, showed something like recognition of a mate? He was fond of the mythical and a strong believer in pre-existence. Might they not have met in some other form, some other world?

There were walks through valleys and over the sides of precipitous mountains. There were rides on roads hard and white, with occasional views of the broad valley of a noble river 4,000 or 5,000 feet below. There were picnics at cascades, boat rides on mountain lakes. In these amusements the two sooner or later drifted together, and when a few weeks had passed the man acted as if all time not passed in her company was so much time lost. Then he awoke to a sudden realization of the fact that in a few days it would be the 31st of August, when the season would be over and the guests scattered.

It was the evening before their separation. They were sitting on the piazza of the hotel. A moon slightly past the full rose in the east and lighted up a stretch of valley land far below, visible through a gap in the mountains. Moonlight is becoming to a woman's features, and a natural strength in hers was softened into a delicious feminine repose. He was fond of the mythical poetry of the Germans, and, listening as he did to the tumbling of water in a mountain stream near by, he almost fancied his companion a Lorelei or a water fay. Life was full of poetic fervor, and his expression took form in poetic words.

"Do you know," he said, "that looking down on that panorama of mingled mist and confusion of dimly lighted undulation there is in me a vague sense of some far distant land in which I have lived?"

"I don't even remember," she said, "when I was a baby."

"This was a bit practical, but he did not notice it."

"We look out into the heavens," he went on, "and in nebulae see universes forming. We know that nothing is destroyed. Matter forms, disintegrates, forms again and again disintegrates. This is what we call birth and death. The particles of which the forms are composed were never born, never die. They existed always and will always exist."

"Are not we forms," she asked, "of more consequence than unfeeling matter?"

"We are, and if there is one attribute within us that is immortal it is love. Love is eternal. There are loves, I admit, that are fleeting, but they are not real loves."

"Not the real thing, you mean?"

He looked at her suspiciously. Was she not capable of following him, or was this a touch of sarcasm? She looked so innocent that he passed the remark.

"Somehow," he went on, "when I first saw you it seemed that we two had met in a previous existence; not only had met, but loved. If I could be blessed with an eternal love, I said to myself, 'I would choose it with her.' Since then the days have flitted happily by, and every day has strengthened this feeling. Now, when I look down on that moonlit plain, with its gilded river thread running through its center, it brings to me with an indescribable vagueness, yet vividness, somewhere in which you and I have met and loved. I choose to think it a love that has had no birth and will have no death, a perpetual mingling of two souls."

He paused. He was very happy, for he was in his element. His disposition was artistic, and his surroundings were artistic. There were the towering peaks, the distant plain, and there beside him was the girl, her features bathed in moonlight.

"I know it is foolish to ask such a question," he said, "but have you any glimmerings of such a past?"

"Yes," she whispered. "We have met before."

"At last I have found one besides myself to remember a pre-existence. I shall never again doubt my theory."

"Our meeting," she continued, "was not in some vague land myriads of years ago and myriads of miles away; our love was not developed in a nebulous cloud. It was at the seasons ten years ago. You have grown older and have absorbed theories since then, but you talk of love in the same strain you talked of it then. It was not nebulous love you told me of as we listened to the breakers, but love in a cottage. I was eighteen, and it was pleasant to listen to. I was a summer girl and did not cherish it. But I have remembered you, which is more than you have done in forgetting me."

"What, the blue eyed flirt of Edgemere?"

"Yes, and we girls called you the love maker of the Cliff House."

"The summer is ended," she added, "and this is my last as a summer girl. Next season I shall be on the eve of thirty, when girls pass into old maids. With you it is different. A man can be a summer man as long as he lives. Go on for ten or twenty years more and be happy."

"This, too, is my climax. Let us leave the field together and enter a new world together—not a nebulous world; a home."

"Come and see me when we are returned to the city."

A NAVAL ACADEMY DAY.

The Rigid Routine That Rules the Midshipmen's Waking Hours.

Let us look for a moment at the division of time in a week in the academy. The morning gun awakens the young midshipman at 6 o'clock. He has thirty-five minutes to dress and appear for roll call. When this is over he and his comrades march at once to breakfast. It is then about twenty minutes before 7 o'clock. After breakfast a short prayer is offered by the chaplain. The meal is over by 7:30, and then there is the sick call. Twenty minutes later the midshipmen must be in their rooms ready to go to their first recitation. At 7:55 they form and march to their classes in squads. At 8 o'clock they are called to order in their classrooms.

The actual work of the day has begun early, and there has been no lagging or loafing. At the Naval academy the midshipmen are trained to walk with a quick step and at a lively gait. The men in the class squads—from six to twelve each—march two abreast and in close formation. It does not take them long to go from one building to another. For each midshipman there are three recitation periods of two hours each. Half of each period is devoted to study, half to actual recitation in class. The first period is from 8 to 10 o'clock in the morning, the second period from 10:15 to 12:15 o'clock and the third period from 2 o'clock to 4 in the afternoon. Between 12:15 and 2 o'clock the midshipmen eat their dinner and have a few minutes afterward for rest. At 4 o'clock all the class work is over, but not the work of the day, for then comes the call to drill.

Drill lasts an hour and a half, and it is work, too, for the naval officer must know thoroughly the infantry and artillery practice of the soldier as well as his own particular branch of the profession of being ready to fight. When his task is over at 5:30 the midshipman has an hour and a half of recreation. This is the playtime of the day. The boys are then on the athletic field engaged in football or baseball practice, depending on the time of the year; sailing in catboats on the harbor or indulging in other amusements that they may choose. But during that hour they are still under the rules governing general conduct.

When 6:55 comes the men are called to supper, and at 7:30 the midshipmen must be in their rooms again and at their books. The study period is two hours long. There is a half hour's relaxation before bedtime, during which the young men may visit each other's rooms, but at 10 o'clock all lights must be out.

For five days in the week this is the unvarying routine, with the exception of two hours' liberty Wednesday afternoon for the first class. On Saturday and Sunday there is a change. Varying with the length of time which they have spent in the academy, liberty is granted to all midshipmen on these two days of the week. The members of all four classes are permitted to leave the grounds after the roll call to dinner, but they must return before the formation for supper. After the supper call the members of the first and second classes have permission to go again beyond the academic limits, but they are required to be back by 9:30. They may or may not eat their supper at the academy mess, as they desire, but they must always report for roll call. In this way the authorities of the institution keep a finger on them.—Leslie's Weekly.

SHE DISLIKES AMERICANS.

The Duchess of Westminster and Her Little Social War.

Her grace the Duchess of Westminster doesn't like Americans, and has inaugurated a social boycott against them. Just why the duchess doesn't admire her American cousins is not plain. In fact, the matter is made even more mysterious and unaccountable when it is remembered that her brother-

Before her recent marriage the duchess was Miss Shelagh West, one of the young beauties of England. As evidence of her refreshing unconventionality it is said that she recently asked the king and queen to name a day when they could attend a ball she was to give, and as an answer was not speedily forthcoming she wrote a private letter to Lord Knollys begging him to ask the king to "hurry up!"

A NEW SOCIETY LEADER.

Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Sr., to Be Conspicuous in Newport Society.

When she returns to her former home, after an almost continuous residence abroad for ten years or more, Mrs. William Kissam Vanderbilt, Sr., is likely to be one of the conspicuous figures in the smart set of New York and Newport. Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt were married in London about two months ago, an event which created quite a stir among the fashionable folk of two continents. When Mrs. Vanderbilt was Miss Anna H. Harriman she was one of the belles of Gotham. About fifteen years ago she married

Mrs. William Kissam Vanderbilt, Sr. Samuel S. Sands, a wealthy New Yorker, who was killed in a hunting accident in 1888. Two years later she married Louis M. Rutherford, who died in 1893. Besides being the wife of a man who possesses $50,000,000, Mrs. Vanderbilt has abundant wealth in her own right.

IMMORTAL J. N.

FAMOUS CHARACTER PAYS VISIT TO OHIO CITY.

Some of the Eccentricities of This Remarkable Individual Known by Zanesville People.

J. N. Free, better known as the immortal J. N., dropped in to Toledo again yesterday, and as usual, is prepared to lift the veil, says the Toledo Blade.

Perhaps, no wanderer is better known in the United States than the "Immortal J. N." He has traveled extensively, and despite his years, he still possesses the keen perception essential to success, by which he is enabled to live in apparent comfort. He has adopted his nomadic manner of living because he finds it to his liking.

Free refuses to tell his age, and evades the subject if broached, he even goes so far as to say that the maiden lady who is approaching 30. He says he was born in Franklin county, Va., and that he taught school in Wyandotte county, near Upper Sandusky, O., in 1845.

The old fellow likes to be addressed as "J. N., the Only Philosopher." If he is so addressed he is most congenial, but to call him "The Immortal" is to court his displeasure. "That is no way to treat a man who has been crazy for 47 years," he will say. "It is no wonder the same elements which caused the loss of thousands of lives during the time of Grant and Lee still prevail. It will be so until I have scattered the forces and lifted the veil. A great work is before me."

Upon entering a community J. N. hastens to the newspaper offices. Here, always in the future tense, he dictates an announcement of his coming, prefixing with "J. N., the Only," making it read as if it had been forwarded from some place in which he wants it published. He appoints a time and fixes a place for "Lifting the Veil," and then remains in seclusion until the hour arrives.

In referring to dates J. N. never uses numerals. "That was before Charlie Foster was born," or "that was before Charlie Foster grew to manhood," he will say. He refers to ex-Secretary of the Treasury Charlie Foster of Fostoria, who is, by the way, one of the aged residents of northwestern Ohio, who recollect how, in the days of their youth the self-styled philosopher traveled from place to place just as he does now and who fail to note any great change in his appearance since then.

It is said that during the civil war Free called on President Lincoln in Washington, and asked permission to arrange a meeting between the Federal General Grant and the Confederate General Lee, with a view of bringing it to a close. The President honored the fellow by issuing a permit in writing, and Free started out upon his mission. Of course, he failed, and has ever since been fighting an imaginary force, which, he says, prevented him from accomplishing his purpose.

The source of his money supply J. N. refuses to divulge, as obstinately as he refuses to tell his age. He never begs and it is seldom that he receives more than a few nickels as proceeds of a street sermon.

Free is one of the most remarkable of the many eccentric men the world has known. First, it is rumored that he is ill, then comes the news of his death, and then, when the belief that he is no more is about to be settled over a community, he bobs up as serenely as the legendary Rip of Irving's famous story. So it has been for years and so it may be for years to come, for today there is little change in the appearance of J. N., and another generation may come into the world to gaze upon and wonder at the old fellow just as the present generation regards him as one of the relics of great-grandfather's time.

DOCTORS' BLUNDERS.

What Legal Methods Applied to Medical Practice Would Uncover.

"Now that I am through with medicine I can speak of the profession in a fashion that I would not if I was still in the practice," said a gentleman who has been known as a successful physician in New York for years as he sat at luncheon in the Lawyers' club.

"Of course I don't care to have my name mentioned, for I have lots of good friends in the profession, but the fact is that the profession of medicine would be nearly ruined if it had to be conducted as you gentlemen of the bar practice your calling."

"We have a great advantage over you, for you in your cases are subjected to the extremest publicity, while we in our cases have the utmost concealment. Just suppose that in our cases we had a judge who knew as much as or more than we did presiding over our actions and, worse than that, had another physician, whose interests were not ours, watching and criticising us at every step and blazoning every error that we made. I fear me, such a prospect as that would frighten the best physician who ever lived the moment he entered a sick room, and yet that condition is just what you men of the law have to face in every case that you try."

"What sort of a figure would a lawyer cut floundering around in court without any knowledge of his case? But a physician can flounder mentally in a sick room without a second person being the wiser, though the patient may suffer; but, then, 'dead men tell no tales.'"

"Under such circumstances of doubt, which is usually ignorance, the physician can look wise, put something into the patient's stomach, go to his office, decide what line of experiment he will follow, return the next day, hoping to find that nature is working the cure that he doesn't know how to effect, and being ready and willing to take all of the credit that comes his way."

"Why, the very first thing that nurses are taught is to observe the utmost secrecy about doctors' blunders. If they told what they know there wouldn't be much confidence in physicians where they are heard. Ask a nurse of experience about this when you have the opportunity."

"Yes, sir, I repeat that the publicity and chance for criticism in your profession, if applied to medicine, would result in the discovery of a small amount of science as compared with the large amount of empiricism."—New York Herald.

No need to fear sudden attacks of cholera infantum, dysentery, diarrhoea summer complaint of any sort if you have Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry in the medicine chest.

Proposed Reunion.

"What's the matter," said an old Newark Volunteer fireman to an Advocate reporter today. "With having a reunion and picnic of the old time Volunteer fire department at Idlewild park in the near future? We have been having family reunions, farmers' picnics, and other social gatherings at the park all summer. Now let's have a Volunteer firemen's reunion. That would be something new and something enjoyable. There is quite a number of the old members of the Newark Volunteer fire department still living in the city, and some of the old fire engines, hose reels, and other apparatus that is still available. Let the surviving members of old Pataskala No. 3, Hope Hose, William Bell, Jr. Hook and Ladder No. 5, and others turn out with their old time apparatus and give modern Newark an exhibition run or two on our paved streets. Then a reunion at the Park would add the social features."

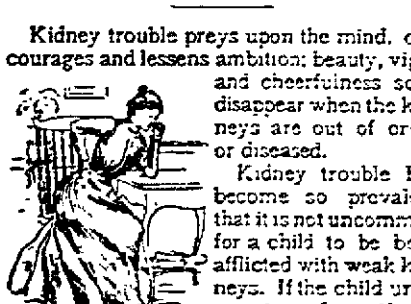

The above suggestion strikes the Advocate as an excellent one, and it seems a good thing to carry out. Among the members of the old Volunteer fire department still remaining in Newark, might be mentioned such men as Henry Woolfsohn, St. Dan L. Jones, A. J. Andrews, D. E. Jones, David Jones, Frank Browne, Clem Bradtork, Frank Bollwine and many others. Who will start the ball rolling?

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

THE DETAIL OF MODISH ENSEMBLE.

BY MAUD WALKER.

Not only on the fashionable modiste must the woman who would be correctly gowned rely. She must understand that a gown, though it be exceedingly smart and elegant depends for its effect on the many small accessories. Also she must understand how to choose things fitting, and not be led by fancy for favorite colors and cuts.

The well-dressed woman never shocks our sense of the fastidious by coming on the street wearing a short skirt and a dress hat. Her head, her feet and her hands are dressed in harmony with her gown. She never wears shoes with a dainty gown, nor do you see her feet peeping from under a tailored, rainy-day skirt shod in patent leather French heels.

There is a fitness of these things in correct dressing, and no one knows it better than the woman of refined and cultured taste.

In the very smallest detail must the fashionable woman be particular. And by being so she does not increase the cost of her wardrobe, in fact, she usually saves thereby. The woman most extravagant in dress is she who buys indiscriminately many small things because of their trifling cost, and later finds she cannot make her cheap purchases fit themselves to her many needs.

The wise and well dressed woman makes no purchase without she feels a crying need for it. Then she buys with caution, taking into consideration not only the present use for the article of dress, but the utility of it for future use. Therefore, when she selects lace it is with a view of wearing it in various ways for many seasons, and she never hesitates to choose something that is worth while. She not only takes pleasure in knowing that this particular piece of lace will never be displayed at bargain counters and worn by the cheap and tawdry mob, but feels assured that she has saved money by the purchase and that it will give an air of refinement and elegance to numberless gowns and bodices for years to come, while her sister, who frequents the sales, "and picks up bargains," spends much more money on her cheap laces and never has the distinction of appearing well-dressed.

The same methods are applied in the purchase of gowns, of wraps, cloaks and millinery, and the would-be saving woman is oftentimes the loser in purse as well as in appearance. And another phase of this dress problem, which certainly should be considered, is the adopting of modes becoming to each individual. Let not a woman choose to dress in white simply because her modiste tells her it is to be a "white season." If the tones of ivory and snow detract from her general appearance—and this they certainly will do if her complexion be not the clearest and her face still youthful—then let her turn her back upon the fad of the moment and dress in tints and colors she knows become her.

The correctly gowned woman is never a faddist, nor is she a follower of the extremes in fashion. She avoids loudness in colors and designs. Conspicuous hats never appeal to her good taste, yet her sister who follows all the exaggerated modes, and revels in the conspicuous, looks with envy on this quietly, elegantly dressed woman, and often wonders why her own "go-ups" don't give the same smart effect.

There are many startling effects being shown in fabrics and trimmings this fall, but let women be slow to adopt these until the season has advanced. These gaudy things are not expected to last, or even have a successful run for the early season, but are intended by manufacturers and dealers to sell "between the acts," so to speak—to keep up trade during the dull weeks of September.

Those having entree to the private displays by several of New York's importers of things modish (and their name is not legion) are treated to a sight of the true 1903-4 modes. While much trimming and much color prevails, the general scheme is quiet and elegant. So many of the handsome cloth gowns—in subdued shades—are adorned with black braid, black fringe and fancy stitchings in black. Only on the evening gowns, carriage gowns and reception costumes do we see much show of "gold and glitter." And apropos the borrowed phrase "gold and glitter," how truly it may be applied to many of the gorgeously beautiful robes coming for evening wear. These are in black, cream, white and several very delicate shades of point de esprit and fine Brussels net, over which runs a flowered design in small beads and fish scale spangles. The effect produced by this glittering decoration is not unlike that of jewels, and at night, under the blaze of gas or electric light, nothing could be more fetching. These robes come in many sizes and are to be worn over silk slips, the color of the net or point de esprit. To put a contrasting color under one of these would mean to spoil its richness and vulgarize it as commonplace. If black be chosen, wear it over a soft black silk lining; if white is the selection, let the accessories be snowy.

Indiana's Only Native Born Chinese Baby.

ANNA LONG CHONG.

Newcastle, Ind., Sept. 2.—Anna Long Chong is the daughter of Long Chong, a local Chinese laundryman. The photo was taken several days ago when Anna was 10 months old. She smiles away much of her time sitting in a chair in front of the laundry or being gorged with candy and fruit by neighbors, women especially being much interested in her. On Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Long Chong and the baby can be seen strolling about the streets, and they are indeed happy and contented.

When the baby becomes sleep the mother places her in a sort of sack on her back, where she peacefully sleeps despite the awful shaking up she undergoes through to movements of the mother, who assists her husband in the laundry work. Long Chong says the child will be sent to school as soon as old enough and will be educated the same as American children. She already shows much intelligence.

DEATH

OF MR. GEORGE BUMGARDNER AT HEBRON.

Former County Commissioner and Well Known Resident Suddenly Called at Age of 76.

Hebron, O., Sept. 2.—The community was deeply shocked this morning by the death of Mr. George Bumgardner, one of the most prominent and highly esteemed residents of this place, which occurred at his home at 8 o'clock, the immediate cause of his death being the pressure of a tumor on the heart which stopped its action.

Mr. Bumgardner had been in his usual health and was in Newark Saturday looking and feeling apparently as well as ever, and greeting his many acquaintances in his usual friendly manner. Notwithstanding his advanced age, being 76 years old, Mr. Bumgardner was hearty and well preserved, both mentally and physically, and his sudden death is all the more shocking. His wife preceded him to the spirit world some years ago. The deceased leaves two sons, John Bumgardner, who is living in Texas, and Lemuel Bumgardner, who lives at home, and two daughters, Mrs. Dodson and Mrs. Holler, who reside between Hebron and Newark. No arrangements have as yet been made for the funeral.

The deceased was one of Licking county's most prominent pioneer citizens. One of his boasts was that when a young man he worked on the wall and embankment of the Licking county reservoir, which for over half a century has been one of the noted improvements of the state.

Mr. Bumgardner held a number of township offices at different times, and in 1890 he was elected one of the County Commissioners of Licking county, serving two terms, six years, in that very important and responsible office, with honor and credit to himself.

The deceased was a member of Hebron Lodge, No. 116, F. & A. M., and the funeral will probably be under its auspices.

Mr. Bumgardner was an honest, intelligent, upright man, a loving husband and father, a true friend, and a good citizen, and his death will be sincerely mourned.

THE CROPS

CORN IS RETARDED BY THE DRY WEATHER.

Too Much Rain in Certain Portions of the Northern Belt—The Crop Conditions.

Washington, Sept. 2.—The weather bureau's weekly summary of crop conditions says:

Over the northern portion of the northern belt cool, wet weather has been very unfavorable for the advancement of corn, which is urgently in need of warm, dry weather. More favorable conditions prevailed over the southern portion of the northern belt, where the crop has made good progress. The outlook in the upper Ohio valley, where corn has suffered seriously from drought, has been greatly improved by recent rains. Cutting is in progress in the southern portions of Kansas and Missouri.

Harvest of spring wheat is finished, except in the northern Rocky mountain states and on the north Pacific coast, where rains have delayed its completion. In the Dakotas, Nebraska, Minnesota and Wisconsin stacking and threshing have been seriously interrupted and considerable damage caused by excessive moisture.

While there has been some improvement in the condition of cotton mainly in portions of the central districts, the crop as a whole has suffered deterioration.

The tobacco crop has suffered some injury from rains in Wisconsin and New York, but elsewhere has experienced no unfavorable conditions and cutting has progressed satisfactorily.

Favorable reports respecting apples are received from portions of the middle Atlantic states, New England and the upper Ohio valley and from southern Kansas, but elsewhere there has been a general decline in the condition of this crop.

The soil is in fine condition for fall plowing, which is well advanced and some wheat has been sown in Nebraska.

SENATORIAL

Convention of This District Will be Held Tomorrow at Noon at Idle-wilde Park.

The committee has chosen an ideal place for tomorrow's Democratic Senatorial convention—the casino of Idle-wilde Park.

The call says that the convention will meet at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning and the gathering will be called to order by Mr. P. N. Cullinan of New Lexington, chairman of the senatorial committee.

In the convention Delaware will have 30 delegates, Licking 58, Muskingum 57 and Perry county 31. This is a total of 176.

BOX OF FINE PLUMS.

The editor of the Advocate was the recipient today of a fine box of fruit sent by express by Mr. Jehiel Tedrick from Idaho, where he is visiting friends. The fruit consisted of a number of varieties of plums, prunes, nectarines, apricots, etc., and was a rare collection of fine specimens. Some of them were the finest in size and beauty we have ever seen, the flavor being far superior in richness to California fruits of this kind. Mr. Tedrick is reported to be enjoying his western trip very much, which his friends will be glad to know.

FINDLAY

Will be Sorry to Lose Rev John Montgomery—The Minister is Not Prepared to Talk.

The Advocate the other day printed an East Liverpool dispatch saying that Rev. John Montgomery, formerly of Newark, had been offered the pastorate of an East Liverpool church. The day following the Advocate printed a report on splendid authority to the effect that Mr. Montgomery will accept the call.

The Findlay Republican says:

It was rumored yesterday that Rev. John Montgomery of the First Presbyterian church, had received a call from East Liverpool and that in all probability he would accept. A meeting of the trustees of the local church has been called for tonight to take some action regarding the matter. Rev. Mr. Montgomery was seen last night and refused to either affirm or deny the story, merely stating that he did not care to have anything published yet. If he accepts the East Liverpool offer his departure will occasion keen regret as he is generally considered the best minister that ever occupied the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church. He is a cultured gentleman and a profound scholar and not only has he been a power in building up the congregation and maintaining that friendly spirit among his parishioners, which is so necessary to a pastor's success in his work, but he has taken a lively interest in the affairs of the city and has lent his efforts toward civic improvement whenever he felt that his voice and influence was needed. He is universally respected for his Christian liberality and forbearance and admired for his ministerial ability and eloquence in the pulpit. His evening sermons invariably draw large audiences composed largely of people not otherwise affiliated with the church itself.

BRIDE

IN BARE FEET APPEARED IN THE HOTEL OFFICE.

Husband Had Inadvertently Shipped Her Shoes Away—He Bought New Ones.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—To miss a husband is a misfortune; to miss a train is an annoyance; to miss one's footgear is a calamity, but to miss all three is a tragedy, believes pretty little Mrs. James Dressler, of Indianapolis, Ind., who, with her pink feet shoeless and stockingsless, tripped over the tile floor of the Stratford Hotel lobby seeking her husband and her shoes.

The Dresslers were on their honeymoon journey. They were to return home and trunks were prepared and everything was in readiness to catch a train at 3:50 o'clock. At exactly 3:20 Dressler rushed into their room accompanied by a porter. The trunk, packed stood in the center of the room. Beside it on the floor lay a pair of demure open-work hose and the finest French-heeled Oxfords.

With one fell swoop the hurrying husband swept the footwear into the trunk, and out went the trunk, trundled by the sturdy porter. Three minutes afterwards Mrs. Dressler emerged from an adjoining room of the bridal suite. She looked about her. Everything was gone. Husband, trunk, shoes and stockings had disappeared. Then the drummers who patronize the Stratford were astounded at the picture of a stylishly gowned young woman walking from the elevator to the desk of the hotel, showing beneath the flounce of a rustling skirt a pair of bare feet.

The clerk explained to the young woman that he did not think her husband had deserted her. Ten minutes later the bridegroom came dashing to the hotel in a carriage. He rushed to the room which had been his home for two weeks. He found his wife. The trunk had been checked aboard the train and the train was on the way to Indianapolis. The husband went out. He returned shortly. Under his arm he carried a package. And the package ended the agony.
